

IT DOESN'T SOUND
THE SAME WITHOUT YOU!

CAN YOU HELP US FIND THE MISSING PIECES?

On stage we have orchestral musicians of the future, but we have a problem... NYO is not alone in seeing a shortage of oboe and bassoon players, horns, trombones and tubas, as well as violas, cellos and bass players.

There is a risk that orchestras of the future will not be able to perform standard repertoire for both concert hall and film music. These instruments are needed to bring alive the vast musical landscapes of the orchestral score.

NYO has professional dedicated tutors to enable youngsters to thrive with these instruments.

HOW YOU CAN HELP...

- Please encourage youngsters to learn these instruments
- Encourage young instrumentalists to transfer to one of the 'endangered' instruments
- Adopt a chair by nominating a particular position in the orchestra that you would like to sponsor
- Perhaps you have a quality instrument that you could loan to NYO

For further details please email us at administrator@nottinghamyouthorchestra.org or visit our website www.nottinghamyouthorchestra.org

nyo

Image: © ALIJSPIHOTOS